SRI VENKATESWARA VETERINARY UNIVERSITY
Administrative Office, Dr.Y.S.R. Bhavan
TIRUPATI-517 502, Andhra Pradesh

INTRODUCTION

The Andhra Veterinary College was started on 15th July, 1955 at Bapatla. Subsequently, the College was shifted to Tirupati during 1957. Consequent to the formation of A.P. Agricultural University (presently named as Acharya N.G.Ranga Agricultural University), this college came into its fold from July 10, 1964 and subsequently under the control of Sri Venkateswara Veterinary University.

During Golden Jubilee year celebration of the College of Veterinary Science, Tirupati during July, 2004-2005. The then Hon'ble Chief Minister, while inaugurating the Golden Jubilee Celebration on 30th September, 2004 announced the formation of Sri Venkateswara Veterinary University at Tirupati by bifurcating ANGRAU. This was done keeping in view of the improvement of livestock and aquaculture farming for the overall development of the economy of the poor farming community of the State. Accordingly the Andhra Pradesh State Government enacted Act.No.18 of 2005 which came into force on June 21, 2005.

The second Veterinary College in the state viz. NTR College of Veterinary Science was started at Gannavaram, Krishna District during the Academic Year 1997-1998 and the third Veterinary College was established at Proddatur, Kadapa District during the academic year 2008-09. The fourth Veterinary College was established at Garividi, Vizianagaram District during the academic year 2020-21.

The Dairy Technology programme started in the year 1983 was elevated as College of Dairy Technology, Tirupati during 2009. This is only one of its kind of College under A.P. State Government offering B.Tech (Dairy Technology) and PG courses in M.Tech (Dairy Technology) and M.Tech (Dairy Microbiology) with primary objective of imparting Quality education in Dairy processing for generation of manpower much needed by dairy, food and allied sectors. Dairy Technology College is also training rural youth and women dairy farmers in various skill development programmes for self-sustainability by using surplus milk.

The Mandate of the University is to strengthen teaching, farmer oriented research and extension activities in Veterinary and allied fields. The university imparts instruction leading to the UG (BVSc & AG), PG (MVSc) and Ph.D programmes in the faculty of Veterinary Science in 17 (Seventeen) disciplines.
